

Erbstein: The triumph and tragedy of football's forgotten pioneer

Erbstein: The triumph and tragedy of football's forgotten pioneer

Dominic Bliss

Erno Egri Erbstein was one of the greatest coaches there has ever been, a pioneering tactician and supreme man-manager who created Il Grande Torino, the team that dominated Italian football in the years immediately after the Second World War. His was an extraordinary life that was characterised by courage and resourcefulness in the face of adversity. Erbstein was part of the great Jewish coaching tradition developed in the coffee houses of Budapest and, playing in Hungary, Italy and the USA, he moved to Bari to embark on a coaching career that soon became noted for its innovativeness. That he and his family survived the Holocaust was a matter of astonishing good fortune, but just four years after the end of the war, Erbstein was killed with his team in the Superga air crash. Dominic Bliss, through a combination of interviews, painstaking archival research and careful detective work, pieces together the lost history of one of football's most influential early heroes. What people have said about Erbstein: football's forgotten pioneer Erbstein's story, largely untold before today, is one of those tales that makes us realise just how for better and worse European history is mirrored in football. Gabriele Marcotti A powerful and moving account of one of football's forgotten heroes. - Anthony Clavane
