

Architect and Engineer (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Architect and Engineer
What can private industrial construction do these days? There's a good answer in Acme Breweries' new $750,000 five-story bottle house. Kraftile Structural Wall Units, Acme found, are a natural for modern design - a solution to major building problems, too. For example...For many partitions, Acme used Kraftile Wall Units in place of steel stud construction. Tests prove these wall units have 10 times the state-required seismic resistance. High-fired, they stand up under the hardest abuse. They resist fire, water, decay and termite destruction. About the Publisher
