

The Silent Psalms of Our Son : Noahs Holy Life Above the Five Senses

The Silent Psalms of Our Son is an inspirational collection of writings about a magical little boy, who ascended to the heavens after only four years in this world. Noah Raphael Jarashow had lived with the genetic disease Tay-Sachs, a condition for which there is no cure. But during his brief, but powerful life in this world, the spiritual light that radiated from Noah shined, and uplifted all who beheld his presence. Noah could not hear, see or speak, but he became a beacon of light for his parents--inspiring them with his silent teachings. As the author, Noahs father Jonathan, writes: Noahs inspiration guides my hand as I write, making this his discourse, and his gift to all. I am his proud and willing scribe, as he leads me to understand who he is, and why he is here. Only through his clear, blue, luminous eyes can I understand and accept life. Though I cannot be as eloquent as my dear Noah, who in his holy silence speaks volumes to our hearts, I bring you his teachings. Silent Psalms will enlighten readers with messages of love, faith, joy, and hope. For example, Jonathans turns to the Book of Psalms to understand and truly and appreciate his sons special nature. In Psalm 1, Jonathan finds a message which applies to Noah, and to anyone who lives with physical limitations: Praiseworthy is the man who walked not in the counsel of the wicked, and stood not in the path of the sinful, and sat not in the session of scorners (Psalms 1). Our Noah does not walk, he does not stand, and he does not sit. We know from this first verse in Psalms that dear Noah is to be praised--for our Noah spends his time dwelling with God and the angels. The book also relates many moving anecdotes about Noah. For example, Jonathan tells the following story about his sons connection to his mother: A rabbi told me when he first saw Noah with Judi, I have never seen a child look at a mother so lovingly. When he said this, he did not know that Noah could not physically see at this stage in his life. But, he correctly perceived that our son did not need vision for this loving exchange with his mother. Noahs spiritual vision was greater, more enduring, and more beloved than the vision of other children. His eyes pierce through the material barriers of this world, reaching the highest heavens. Our life with him teaches us to maintain our focus there. ALL proceeds from the sale of this book will go directly to the Noahs Spark Foundation, a non-profit organization which was started to honor the memory of Noah Raphael Jarashow. The foundation provides assistance to terminally ill children and their families.
